[19-20] It is vitally important in the war of attrition that individuals should give no inkling of when they are going to give up. Anybody who betrayed, by the merest flicker of whisker, that he was beginning to think of throwing in the sponge, would be at an instant disadvantage. If, say, whisker-flickering happened to be a reliable sign that retreat would follow within one minute, there would be a very simple warning strategy: 'If your opponent's whiskers flicker, wait one more minute, ( ) what your own previous plans for giving up might have been. If your opponent's whiskers have not yet flickered, and you are within one minute of the time when you intend to give up anyway, give up immediately and don't waste any more time. Never flicker your own whiskers.'

[21-22] The chimpanzee and the human share about 99.5% of their evolutionary history, yet most human thinkers regard the chimp as a malformed, irrelevant oddity while seeing themselves as stepping-stones to the Almighty. To an evolutionist this cannot be so. There exists no objective basis on which to elevate one species above another. Chimp and human, lizard and fungus, we have all evolved over some three billion years by a process known as natural selection. Within each species some individuals leave more surviving offspring than others, so that the inheritable traits of the reproductively successful become more numerous in the next generation. This is natural selection. Natural selection built us, and it is natural selection we must understand if we are to comprehend our own identities.

21. Which of the following statements is NOT true for the above passage?

- ① The chimpanzee and the human are very much alike in their evolution.
 ② It is generally agreed that chimps are inferior to humans.

③ The evolution of lizard and fungus as well as chimp and human is due to natural selection.

④ Natural selection leads some species to outnumber other species in offspring survivals.

⑤ Natural selection forces us to put the identities of humans before those of other species.

22. Choose a word that best replaces the underlined.

- ① potentials ② essentials ③ atoms ④ genes ⑤ histories

[23-24] One kind of equivocation deserves special mention. This is the mistake that arises from the misuse of "relative" terms, which have different meanings in different contexts. For example, the word "tall" is a relative word; a tall man and a tall building are in quite different categories. A tall man is one who is taller than most men; a tall building is one that is taller than most buildings. Certain forms of argument that are valid for non-relative terms break down when relative terms are substituted for them. The argument "an elephant is an animal; therefore a gray elephant is a gray animal" is perfectly valid. The word "gray" is a non-relative term. But the argument "an elephant is an animal; therefore a small elephant is a small animal" is ridiculous. The point here is that "small" is a relative term: A small elephant is a very large animal. The fallacy is one of equivocation with regard to the relative term "small". Not all equivocation on relative terms is so obvious, however. The word "good" is a relative term and is frequently equivocated on when it is argued, for example, that so-and-so is a good general and would therefore be a good president, or that someone is a good scholar and is therefore likely to be a good teacher.

23. What would be the best title for the given passage?

- ① Fallacy of equivocation ② Strength of equivocation
 ③ Equivocation of language ④ Equivocation in human beings
 ⑤ Equivocation in nature

24. Which of the following statements is true for the passage?

- ① The word "tall" is a non-relative word.
 ② Equivocation arises due to sentence structure.
 ③ Relative terms are subject to equivocation.
 ④ The word "gray" can be equivocated on.
 ⑤ Non-relative terms are instrumental in equivocation.

[25-27] The seventies and eighties have been a hangover of reappraisal after a ( ) of illusion. Inflation has sapped the confidence of the middle class, unemployment that of the working class. Even Britain's international adventures took on a different aspect, though foreigners seldom understood this. The Suez invasion, the military role in Cyprus, these were the last flings of a nation asserting a global role; the British army in Northern Ireland, the Falklands crisis, showed Britain reluctantly assuming burdens that were a hangover of imperial days, fighting to give people the right to remain British, but without conviction or enthusiasm. It has been a time of shrinking expectation, national cynicism; a time for pulling the bedclothes over one's head and having as good a time as possible underneath.

25. Which of the following statements is true for the above passage? ① During the 70's and 80's, Britain's economic power was maintaining its stability.  ② During the 70's and 80's, British people were gaining more confidence with their nation than ever before.  ③ During the 70's and 80's, Britain was engaged with more conflicts than before.  ④ During the 70's and 80's, British military power was still maintaining its superiority over many other nations.  ⑤ During the 70's and 80's, Britain experienced the declination of its power. 26. What is NOT the appropriate expression for the parenthesis?  ① binge ② spree ③ splurge ④ speculation ⑤ bender 27. What can be the most suitable idea for the underlined expression?  ① self-esteem ② self-deception ③ self-control  ④ selfishness ⑤ self-interest [28-30] In the past eight years, Russia has had serious rows with almost half of the EU's 27 member states. Contrary to popular opinion that such disagreements are fueled by historic grievances in Eastern Europe, these disputes have affected both longtime members of the EU and new ones: both Russia's neighbors and states (                    ); both those who thought they had good relations with Moscow and those who were happy to admit they were bad. For Instance, Russia banned Polish meat in 2005, claiming it was unhygienic; it attempted to charge the German airline Lufthansa special fees for flying over Siberia in 2007; and it allegedly reengaged in cyberterrorism against Estonia in May 2007 and against Lithuania in June 2008. 28. What would be the best title for the given passage?  ① Conflicts in EU due to Russia  ② Eastern Europe's conflicts with Russia  ③ EU's competition with Russia  ④ Complexity of international politics  ⑤ Russia's antagonism against EU 29. Select the most suitable expression for the parenthesis.  ① much advanced ② farther afield ③ less developed  ④ quite friendly ⑤ remaining close 30. Select the best word that can replace the underlined.  ① reluctantly ② openly ③ decisively  ④ supposedly ⑤ aggressively	[31-33] For 3,000 years, farmers in China's Sichuan province pollinated their fruit trees the old-fashioned way: they let the bees do it. Flowers produce nectar that attracts bees, which inadvertently transfer sticky grains of pollen from one flower to another, fertilizing them so they bear fruit. When China rapidly expanded its pear orchards in the 1980's, it stepped up its use of pesticides, and this age-old system of pollination began to unravel. Today, during the spring, the snow-white pear blossoms blanket the hills, but there are no bees to carry the pollen. Instead, thousands of villagers climb through the trees, hand-pollinating them by dipping "pollination sticks" into plastic bottles of pollen and then (                    ) them to each of the billions of blossoms. 31. Which of the following statements is true for the passage?  ① China has more manpower than ever.  ② Bees are decreasing in number in modern days.  ③ Modern technology made the mass production possible.  ④ Human beings can do a better job in pollination than bees do.  ⑤ China's new farming methods are more productive than before. 32. Select the most suitable expression for the parenthesis.  ① touching ② throwing ③ connecting ④ fitting ⑤ dropping 33. Select the best word that can replace the underlined.  ① eagerly  ② busily  ③ involuntarily  ④ officially  ⑤ deliberately
