[46-60] 주어진 글을 읽고 물음에 가장 알맞은 답을 고르시오. 218 words

Dr. Pickett, a Canadian entomologist, and his associates struck out on a new road instead of going along with other entomologists who continued to pursue the will-o'-the-wisp of the ever more toxic chemical. [I] Recognizing that they had a strong ally in nature, they devised a program that makes maximum use of natural controls and minimum use of insecticides. Whenever insecticides are applied only minimum dosages are used — barely enough to control the pest without avoidable harm to beneficial species. Proper timing also enters in. [II]

How well has this program worked? Nova Scotia orchardists who are following Dr. Pickett's Ⓐ_____ spray program are producing as high a share proportion of first-grade fruit as are those who are using Ⓑ_____ chemical applications. They are also getting as good production. They are getting these results, moreover, at a substantially lower cost. [III]

More important than even these excellent results is the fact that Dr. Pickett's program is not doing violence to nature's balance. [IV] It is well on the way to realizing the philosophy stated by G. C. Ullyett a decade ago: "We must change our philosophy, abandon our attitude of human superiority and admit that in many cases in natural environments we find ways of limiting populations of organisms in a more economical way than we can do it ourselves."

46 Which of the following is most suitable for the blanks Ⓐ and Ⓑ? [4.1점]

③ indiscreet — discreet
④ modified — intense

48 What are the two most important factors in applying insecticides in Dr. Pickett's program? [4.1점]

① maximum dosages and proper timing

Every girl I met is amazing. I feel honored to share their stories and images — and their strength — with you: the look on Alice's face after she conquered the big hill on her bike and Aris's proud smile when she achieved her goal of becoming a pilot at just 16. It is my goal with these images to inspire girls and women to be their best selves, to challenge and test their limits. We all are constantly bombarded with Ⓐ societal messages about how women and girls should act, look, or be, and processing Ⓑ them in a healthy way can be hard even for a 40-year-old mother of two who knows better. I worry about what my girls and their friends are exposed to and how their opinions of their bodies and selves are being shaped by the internet, TV, and magazines. I want these images to combat Ⓒ those negative voices that tell us we are not good enough, thin enough, or whatever enough; because ⓐ_____ I want these girls to be able to hear their own voices through these images, and to inspire them to use Ⓓ them and continue to use them. Loudly.

Andrew Carnegie, a Scottish-American industrialist and philanthropist, was born in 1835 in Scotland, and immigrated to the United States with his parents at age 12. Carnegie started work as a telegrapher, and by the 1860s had investments in railroads, bridges, and oil derricks. He accumulated further wealth as a bond salesman. He built Pittsburgh's Carnegie Steel Company, which he sold to J. P. Morgan in 1901 for $303,450,000. After selling Carnegie Steel, he surpassed John D. Rockefeller as the richest American for the next several years.

As early as 1868, at age 33, Carnegie drafted a memo to himself. He wrote: "... The amassing of wealth is one of the worse species of idolatry. No idol more debasing than the worship of money." In order to avoid degrading himself, he wrote in the same memo he would retire at age 35 to pursue the practice of philanthropic giving for "... the man who dies thus rich dies disgraced." However, he did not begin his philanthropic work in all earnest until 1881, with the gift of a library to his hometown in Scotland.

Ⓐ_____ Carnegie did not comment on British imperialism, he strongly opposed the idea of American colonies. He opposed the annexation of the Philippines and tried to arrange for independence for the Philippines. As the end of the Spanish-American War neared, the United States bought the Philippines from Spain for $20 million. To counter what he perceived as imperialism on the part of the United States, Carnegie personally offered $20 million to the Philippines so that the Filipino people could buy their independence from the United States. However, nothing came of the offer.

53 Which of the following can be inferred from the passage? [4.1점]

① Carnegie started to invest in railroads, bridges, and oil derricks in 1860.
② Carnegie was not the richest man in America in the 1890s.

55 The third paragraph illustrates Carnegie's philosophy of _____. [4.1점]

① wealth ② anti-imperialism ③ the Philippines ④ idolatry

56 According to the passage, which of the following is true? [4.1점]

① Carnegie started to do things as a philanthropist at age 35.
② Carnegie regarded it a disgrace for a rich man to die.
③ The Philippines gained independence from America thanks to Carnegie's offering of money.
④ Carnegie opposed America's purchase of the Philippines from Spain.

Freud first became aware of the meaningfulness of certain everyday slips and lapses in 1896. In a letter to his colleague, he wrote that he had "at last grasped a little thing I had long suspected", namely, the reason why a known name sometimes eludes retrieval and wrong names are dredged up in its place. In this instance, he had been unable to recall the last name of a poet. "I was able to prove (i) that I had repressed the name because of certain associations; (ii) that material from my infancy played a part in the repression; and (iii) that the substitute names that occurred to me arose, just like a symptom, from both recent and infantile groups of material".

Having established the significance of this apparently trivial lapse, he began to collect examples of many different forms of everyday error: misreadings, slips of the tongue and pen, misquotations, bungled actions and so on. Gradually he became convinced that all of these normally Ⓐ_____ slips and lapses betrayed the presence within the unconscious of repressed impulses. Most of the time they remained hidden, but occasionally they seized upon an opportune moment to make themselves known through some error of 'parapraxis'.

The Psychopathology of Everyday Life first appeared as a separate volume in 1904 and was subsequently enlarged over the next 20 years. It became one of Freud's most popular books, running into many editions. The core ideas and many of the best examples were later expressed more succinctly (and more convincingly) in the Introductory Lectures on Psychoanalysis, given at the University of Vienna between 1915 and 1917 and later published. Thereafter, the phrase 'a Freudian slip' entered the language, and the view that errors were unconsciously determined became firmly lodged, for good and ill, in scientific and popular belief.

57 Which of the following is NOT appropriate for the blank Ⓐ? [4.1점]

① negligible ② unfrivolous ③ trifling ④ inconsequential

58 According to the passage, which of the following is NOT true? [4.1점]

① Both the Introductory Lectures on Psychoanalysis and The Psychopathology of Everyday Life were published.
② Freud began to gather the examples of minor slips and lapses after realizing their significance.
③ The idea that errors have their roots in the unconscious mind came from Freud.
④ While the scientific community accepted Freud's theory, the public thought it was preposterous.

59 According to the passage, why was Freud unable to remember the last name of the poet? [4.1점]

① The poet did not have a last name since infancy, so there was no last name to begin with.
② Freud was unable to forget the substitute names due to parapraxis.
③ Freud unconsciously held back the name because of his early memories.
④ The poet's name came up as a slip of the tongue, but Freud repressed it as a trivial lapse.

60 Which of the following best represents an opportune moment in the second paragraph? [4.1점]

① In speech, memory retrieval or action ② A retrieval of infantile parapraxis
③ In each form of psychoanalytic disorders ④ A repressed and unconscious memory
